

£10 million to support suicide prevention

Those struggling with their mental health will be better supported thanks to a £10 million funding boost for charities working to prevent suicides.