

£100 million public-private health research boost

20 new clinical research hubs to be set up across UK to accelerate research into the next generation of treatments.