

£213 million UK Government funding to help UK scientists

The investment will equip the UK's leading scientists, universities and research institutes with new state of the art equipment to drive forward research