

60 per cent of England now covered by historic devolution deals

The percentage of the English population now living in a place covered by a devolution deal has risen to 60 per cent.