

70 million face masks for NHS and care workers through new industry deal

More than 70 million face masks will be manufactured in the UK and delivered to frontline health and care workers following an agreement with a global technology company.