

A single chair for north west London's acute trusts to support more collaborative working

The north west London NHS has agreed to appoint a single chair for its four acute trusts.