

African countries have huge potential but sustainable development also depends on peace and security: UK statement at the UN Security Council

Statement by Ambassador James Kariuki at the UN Security Council meeting on strengthening the role of the African state in addressing global security and development challenges.