

Armed Forces to benefit from £45 million contract for life-saving explosive devices protection system

Soldiers, vehicles and UK military bases to receive innovative digital protection against Improvised Explosive Devices (IEDs) through a £45 million contract.