

Article – Parliament lit up in gold to support children fighting cancer

Polish EPP member Ewa Kopacz, who is the Parliament coordinator on children's rights, said: "While we should strive for the prevention of paediatric cancer, we must also work to ensure that all children facing a cancer diagnosis have equal access to treatment and proper care throughout their treatment and recovery."

The Parliament Vice-President, who is a former paediatrician and health minister, added: "'By lightning the European Parliament in gold we send a strong signal of solidarity and support to children and adolescents fighting cancer, their families, childhood cancer survivors and professionals serving them. "
