

Bella Hadid expresses 'sadness' at growing up away from Palestinian roots

Thu, 2022-08-18 21:50

LONDON: The model Bella Hadid has spoken of her "sadness" that her "Muslim culture" was taken from her as a child following the divorce of her parents.

In an interview with GQ, ahead of her acting debut in the Hulu TV series "Ramy," she said she had been "extracted" from her Palestinian father, real estate developer Mohamed Hadid, and his side of the family when her mother, Dutch model Yolanda Hadid, moved her and her siblings, Gigi and Anwar, from Washington, D.C. to Santa Barbara, California.

What increasingly hot and dusty Middle East summers mean for public health, productivity and energy demand

Thu, 2022-08-18 21:27

DUBAI: This summer, at least 20 countries around the world have recorded maximum temperatures of 50 degrees Celsius or above, with extreme heat episodes striking Europe, the Middle East and Africa – often for the first time on record.

The Arab region in particular has experienced progressively extreme temperatures year on year, attributable to long-term variations in weather patterns. At this rate, the reality of climate change could well prove worse than the forecast.

Young Palestinians losing interest in politics, poll shows

Thu, 2022-08-18 00:34

RAMALLAH: Young Palestinians have the potential to play a vital role in politics but lack the opportunity to do so, according to the results of a recent poll.

The study, by the Jerusalem Media and Communication Centre, found that young people were reluctant to join political parties, despite more than 82 percent of respondents believing they had an important role to play.
