Netherlands: European support for upgrade of Utrecht's Diaconessenhuis hospital

- EIB to lend EUR 43 million to Diaconessenhuis hospital with support of the European Commission's Investment Plan for Europe, or Juncker Plan.
- Financing will support the hospital's strategic investment programme up to 2022, including construction of new facilities and renovation of existing ones.

The European Investment Bank and the Diaconessenhuis Hospital in Utrecht have signed a lending agreement for EUR 43 million, supported by the European Fund for Strategic Investments \(EFSI\), the main pillar of the Investment Plan for Europe, also known as the Juncker Plan.

The financing will be used for Diaconessenhuis' strategic investment programme, running up to 2022, which aims to improve the quality of the medical services provided, and maintain Diaconessenhuis' important position as a healthcare provider in the region. The EU-backed financing will allow the hospital to invest in modern, state of the art infrastructure that is efficient, flexible, easily adaptable to future changes of service needs, and expandable without disruption to ongoing operations.

"It is important that hospitals adapt their service profile to the population's changing health care needs, as well as to the progress of health care technology." said EIB Vice-President Ambroise Fayolle. "The improvements to the hospital's various locations, and the upgrade of the electronic medical record system mean that it will become more efficient, flexible, and easily adaptable to possible future changes."

On a technical level, the project concerns the new construction of a healthcare centre and a hybrid operating theatre in Utrecht, as well as renovation works in its existing facilities in both Utrecht and Zeist. The loan will also cover the acquisition of medical and non-medical equipment, as well as allow the hospital to upgrade its electronic patient file. This will allow for a greater focus on personalised care, improved working environment, optimised patient and workforce mobility, as well as improved compliance with new health and safety regulations. All these aspects will contribute directly or indirectly to the overall well-being of the population.

Jyrki Katainen, European Commission Vice-President responsible for Jobs, Growth, Investment and Competitiveness, said: “Providing high-quality healthcare for patients is fundamental which is why the Investment Plan for Europe has been very active in supporting medical projects across the EU since 2015. With today’s loan agreement, Utrecht’s population will benefit from state-of-the-art facilities with the latest technology.”

Martijn Wiesenekker, member Board of Directors Diakonessenhuis: “2019 marks our 175th year of being the hospital for the city and region of Utrecht. This makes investing in care for our patients through a loan from the Bank of the European Union extra special. And we are glad to do so in deliberation with our own bankers Rabo and BNG. Generations of patients and employees love coming to us because of our human dimension, personal attention and atmosphere. We like to keep innovating, so that in the future, we will continue to be the hospital close to young and old.”

Zambia: EU support to promote access to clean water and improved sanitation

- EUR 5 million EU investment grant, channeled by the European Investment Bank, from the EU Water Facility Pooling Mechanism, targets investments in peri-urban areas.

The European Investment Bank (EIB) has teamed up with the EU’s external action service in a bid to provide clean water and adequate sanitation to citizens in the Zambian Copperbelt Province, bordering on the DRC. The EU grant financing, will help the Mulonga Water and Sewerage Company (MWSC) implement the “Mulonga Peri-Urban Water and Sanitation Action”. This initiative is part of the broader Zambia Water and Sanitation (ZWS) project for which in 2013 EIB already provided a EUR 75 million concessional loan for the rehabilitation and expansion of water and wastewater services of MWSC. The overall project will ensure urgently needed improvement to MWSC’s water and sanitation services: most of the existing infrastructure is over 50 years old and is therefore struggling to meet growing demand.

“The EIB’s longstanding support to water sector on the African continent holds a significant contributing to the UN’s Sustainable Development Goals, in particular in peri-urban, low-income areas. The ZWS project, including the EU financed sub-component, is all the more relevant in the Zambian context, at a time where the country has been suffering from the impact of climate change through prolonged drought and severe floods.” commented EIB Vice-President Ambroise Fayolle. “The project can have a significant effect on Zambia’s development through its impact on health, reduced incidence of water-borne diseases, improved school attendance in the relevant target group, reduced child mortality and increased productivity of the relevant labour force. We believe that positive spill-overs can be expected to virtually all sectors of the economy and the environment.”

The Ambassador of the European Union to Zambia and COMESA, H.E. Alessandro Mariani, added that: “Poor infrastructure – notably limited access to basic water and sanitation services – is a fundamental impediment to unlocking the country’s economic and social potential, making the economy more resilient and sharing the gains from growth more broadly and equitably among Zambian citizens. The EU action under the ZWS project is aligned with the EU Agenda for Change’s pillar of inclusive and sustainable growth for human development. The EU-EIB financing package – comprising a EUR 75 million investment loan, a EUR 6 million technical assistance grant and a EUR 5 million investment grant – accounts for 55% of total project cost, which also includes a 50 million AFD loan. This efficient use of EU grants and EIB concessional loans – like in the road and energy sectors – is crucial in the Zambian macro-economic context.”

The Minister of Finance, Hon. Margaret Mwanakatwe, highlighted that: “The project is fully consistent with the Zambian Vision 2030 that sets the targets of 100% access to clean water provision by 2030.” She also stressed that: “The Copperbelt Region is the second most populous region of Zambia, with around two million people, out of which 60% is estimated to live in low-income, peri-urban areas, where access to safe water remains typically below 40%. The entire project is expected to benefit 350,000 people in total, most of which will gain access to clean water for the first time. “Government welcomes the EU-EIB initiative as the project underscores its continued commitment to ensuring the socio-economic welfare of the Zambian people especially in light of the cholera outbreaks that have impacted Zambia in the past few years.”

MWSC’s CEO, Kanyembo Ndhlovu said: “We thank the EIB and the EU for their continuous support in the past nine years, both in terms of funding as well as their advice. The ZWS project is the result from a collaboration that started in 2010, using funds from the EU-EIB ACP Water Project Preparation Facility and the EIB. The ongoing technical assistance, which the EIB channels to us in support of project implementation, will further build local capacity. The sub-component financed by the EU grant will include working with local community groups and non-governmental bodies to provide water kiosks, new sanitation facilities and piped water connections. The project will generate significant local employment. Ultimately, it will ensure MWSC’s ability to provide improved core water and sanitation services to a broader, more inclusive customer base in a sustainable manner.

European Commission marks the International Day against Homophobia, Transphobia and Biphobia

Tomorrow, Friday 17 May, marks the International Day against Homophobia, Transphobia and Biphobia, calling attention to discrimination suffered by the lesbian, gay, bisexual, transgender and intersex (LGBTI) community in the EU and around the world. First Vice-President Frans Timmermans stated: “The European Commission will always strongly condemn violence, discrimination, harassment and hate speech on the basis of sexual orientation, gender identity or sex characteristics. We all have the right to live free from dehumanisation, ill-treatment or even persecution, regardless of how we identify and regardless whom we love, and this right must be resolutely defended if we are all to be equals in society.” Commissioner Věra Jourová added: “The discrimination of the LGBTI community in the EU covers many aspects of life, such as employment, social security and protection, education and health. Public expressions of sexual orientation and gender identity, such as holding hands on the street or sharing a picture on social media, are too often met with biased and hateful remarks or even violence. We have set up a series of actions at EU-level, but Member States play a pivotal role in making these efforts effective. I therefore strongly encourages Member States to maintain and expand their own initiatives.” High Representative / Vice-President Federica Mogherini has also issued a declaration on behalf of the European Union today, available here. In March this year, the Commission published its annual report on the implementation of the List of actions to advance LGBTI equality in 2018, which provides an overview of the ambitious set of measures the Commission is implementing to combat discrimination against LGBTI people. This evening, the European Commission headquarters will be lit up in the colours of the rainbow flag as a beacon of support for the LGBTI community and its allies. This afternoon, the EU Agency for Fundamental Rights and around 30 diplomatic missions worldwide are publishing a joint statement to mark this day. Tomorrow, the Commission is also hosting, under the responsibility of Commissioner Günther Oettinger, an event for European Commission staff on the theme “Rainbow networks: How important are they?” On 15 June, Commissioner Jourová will be joining the European Commission float at the EuroPride Parade in Vienna. ### Eurogroup and ECOFIN meetings, 16 and 17 May 2019

Commissioners Günther H. Oettinger, responsible for Budget and Human Resources and Pierre Moscovici, in charge of Economic and Financial Affairs, Taxation and Customs, will represent the Commission at today’s Eurogroup and tomorrow's ECOFIN meetings. In the Eurogroup, ministers will exchange views on the economic situation of the euro area and will discuss the main policy challenges on the basis of the European Commission's Spring 2019 Economic Forecast. The Eurogroup will then continue in an inclusive format to follow up on the December 2018 Euro Summit. As part of the ongoing work on the deepening of the Economic and Monetary Union, ministers will discuss the Budgetary Instrument for Competitiveness and Convergence, with a particular emphasis on revenue aspects. Commissioner Pierre Moscovici will participate in the press conference following the meeting. At their meeting the next day, EU finance ministers will try to come to an agreement on an update to the EU's excise duty system, including on specific rules for alcohol. Ministers are then expected to debate the reform of the international tax system ahead of the June G20 meetings in Japan. Ministers will also discuss the economic impact of labour mobility, in the presence of Commissioner Marianne Thyssen, in charge of Employment, Social Affairs, Skills and Labour Mobility. Finally, ministers are expected to adopt conclusions on in-depth reviews for Member States identified in the Alert Mechanism Report of November 2018 and progress with the implementation of the 2018 Country-Specific Recommendations of July 2018. A press conference with Commissioner Günther H. Oettinger will follow the meeting. (For more information: Annika Breidhardt – Tel.: +32 229-56153; Vanessa Mock – Tel.: +32 229 56194; Annikky Lamp – Tel.: +32 229 56151; Enda McNamara – Tel.: +32 229 58615; Patrick McCullough – Tel.: +32 229 87183)

European Investment Bank approves €350 million in financing under Juncker Plan for Northvolt's battery gigafactory in Sweden

The European Investment Bank (EIB) has given its in-principle agreement to help finance Europe's first home-grown gigafactory for lithium-ion battery cells, Northvolt Ett, in Sweden. Once the loan agreement is in place, the financing would be supported by the European Fund for Strategic Investments (EFSI), the main pillar of the Juncker Plan. The batteries from Northvolt Ett are targeted for use in automotive, grid storage, and industrial and portable applications. Maroš Šefčovič, Vice-President for the Energy Union, said: "The EIB and the Commission are strategic partners under the EU Battery Alliance. I welcome the significant support proposed by the EIB to Northvolt gigafactory as a stepping-stone towards building a competitive, sustainable and innovative value chain, with battery cells manufactured at scale, here, in Europe. Our two institutions are working closely with the industry and key Member States to put the EU on a firm path towards global leadership in this rapidly expanding sector". A press release is available here. As of April 2019, the Juncker Plan has mobilised almost €393 billion of additional investment, including €10.7 billion in Sweden. The Plan is currently supporting 945,000 small and medium businesses across Europe. (For more information: Annika Breidhardt – Tel.: +32 229 56153; Siobhán Millbright – Tel.: +32 229 57361)

Des jeunes leaders invités à débattre des inégalités lors des Journées européennes du développement

Quinze jeunes leaders internationaux ont été sélectionnés par la Commission européenne pour faire entendre la voix de la jeunesse lors des Journées européennes du développement, le plus important forum sur la coopération internationale et le développement, qui se tiendra à Bruxelles les 18 et 19 juin prochains. Neven Mimica, commissaire en charge de la coopération internationale et du développement, a déclaré: « Ces jeunes leaders ont des compétences et une expertise exceptionnelles et partageront avec nous leurs idées sur la manière dont notre coopération peut aider à réduire les inégalités. Je me réjouis d'entendre leurs points de vue inspirants, car la nouvelle génération aura entre ses mains la clé pour un monde meilleur et plus juste. » Les jeunes leaders, âgés de 21 à 26 ans, ont été choisis parmi 404 candidats issus de 99 pays pour leurs compétences, leur expertise et leur contribution active à la recherche de solutions aux problèmes de développement. Ils partageront leurs visions sur la manière de remédier aux inégalités pour construire un monde qui ne néglige personne – thème principal de l'édition 2019 des Journées européennes du développement. ## European Commission launches Blue Economy Report at European Maritime Day in Lisbon

Today, Commissioner for Environment, Maritime Affairs and Fisheries Karmenu Vella opened the 2019 European Maritime Day conference in Lisbon. This year, the main focus is on boosting a “blue” economy, the sustainable use of ocean resources for economic growth, through entrepreneurship, investment, and research and innovation. On this occasion, the European Commission launches the second edition of its Blue Economy Report. Commissioner Vella said: “Coastal regions are home to 214 million people and generate 43% of EU GDP. Today’s report confirms the blue economy’s role as an exciting growth sector, with opportunities both in established sectors like tourism and shipbuilding, and in emerging areas like ocean energy or the blue bioeconomy. Yet we also know that blue economy start-ups and small companies often struggle to get their good ideas off the ground. That is why the European Commission is currently developing an investment-readiness support tool to help them mature and eventually access the funding they need to scale up.” Tibor Navracsics, Commissioner for Education, Youth, Culture and Sport, responsible for the Joint Research Centre, instrumental in drafting the Blue Economy Report added: “Though our oceans cover more than 70% of the earth’s surface, we know less about what lies beneath the waves than we do about faraway planets. This prevents us from making the most of our resources while protecting marine ecosystems. The second Report on the European Blue Economy aims to change that. It reflects the importance that the European Commission attaches to a robust, evidence-based approach. Our oceans and seas can help us in tackling the challenges facing humanity; creating prosperity without endangering that of future generations.” Using the opportunities of the oceans sustainably was also at the heart of Commissioner Vella’s speech at today’s international ministerial conference on smart ocean governance, organised by Portugal. He reiterated the key role of oceans – in particular ocean energy – towards achieving a carbon-free Europe by 2050. The full speech and the 2019 EU Blue Economy Report are available online. More information is available here on the upcoming release of the IPCC Special Report on Oceans expected in September 2019. (For more information: Enrico

Single European Railway Area: better rules on interoperability, noise and access for persons with reduced mobility

The Commission is today adopting a set of rules addressing rail interoperability, train accessibility for persons with reduced mobility and rail noise. This series of measures completes the preparations for the ‘technical pillar’ of the Fourth Railway Package, adopted by the European Parliament and the Council in April 2016, and now ready to kick-in on 16 June 2019. The Package will help to complete the Single European Railway Area – the so-called Single Market for rail services – and therefore deliver on this Commission’s agenda of a fairer and deeper internal market. Its overarching goal is to revitalise the rail sector and make European railways more innovative and competitive vis-à-vis other modes of transport. Commissioner for Transport Violeta Bulc said: “Today, we are putting in place a critical pillar of our vision for rail transport, with our citizens at its heart. The Commission has now finalised all preparatory works of the Fourth Railway Package. Member States must now act swiftly and implement the new rules to create a real interoperable rail network that will make rail more attractive, more reliable and competitive and at the same time reduce costs for Europe-wide railway services.” The latest new rules adopted today are essential for improving the accessibility of persons with reduced mobility, but also to counter one of the negative impacts of transport affecting human health: noise. They will also will boost deployment of interoperable train operations and in particular the European rail traffic management system \(ERTMS\), the basis for digitalising railways and launching automated services, to the benefit of European citizens and industry. It will also significantly reduce the costs and administrative burden by granting the European Railways Agency \(ERA\) the responsibility for issuing EU vehicle authorisations and certification for operations. Provisions for citizens with reduced mobility will ensure they have better access to information on equipment in all railway stations across Europe. ## Antitrust: Commission fines Barclays, RBS, Citigroup, JPMorgan and MUFG €1.07 billion for participating in foreign exchange spot trading cartel

In two settlement decisions, the European Commission has fined five banks for taking part in two cartels in the Spot Foreign Exchange market for 11 currencies – Euro, British Pound, Japanese Yen, Swiss Franc, US, Canadian, New Zealand and Australian Dollars, and Danish, Swedish and Norwegian crowns. The first decision imposes a total fine of €811 million on Barclays, The Royal Bank of Scotland (RBS), Citigroup and JPMorgan. The second decision imposes a total fine of €258 million on Barclays, RBS and MUFG Bank (formerly Bank of Tokyo-Mitsubishi). UBS is an addressee of both decisions, but was not fined as it revealed the existence of the cartels to the Commission. Foreign Exchange, or “Forex”, refers to the trading of currencies. When companies exchange large amounts of a certain currency against another, they usually do so through a Forex trader. The Commission’s investigation revealed that some individual traders in charge of Forex spot trading of these currencies on behalf of the relevant banks exchanged sensitive information and trading plans, and occasionally coordinated their trading strategies through various online professional chatrooms. The information exchanges, following the tacit understanding reached by the participating traders, enabled them to make informed market decisions on whether to sell or buy the currencies they had in their portfolios and when. Commissioner Margrethe Vestager, in charge of competition policy said: “Companies and people depend on banks to exchange money to carry out transactions in foreign countries. Foreign exchange spot trading activities are one of the largest markets in the world, worth billions of euros every day. Today we have fined Barclays, The Royal Bank of Scotland, Citigroup, JPMorgan and MUFG Bank and these cartel decisions send a clear message that the Commission will not tolerate collusive behaviour in any sector of the financial markets. The behaviour of these banks undermined the integrity of the sector at the expense of the European economy and consumers”. The full press release is available online in EN, FR, DE. ### Mergers: Commission clears acquisition of NKD Group by TDR Capital

The European Commission has approved, under the EU Merger Regulation, the acquisition of sole control of NKD Group of Germany by TDR Capital of the UK. NKD Group is a discount value retailer selling apparel, home textiles and hard goods (such as toys, various electronics devices and lighting products) in Germany, Austria, Italy, Slovenia, and Croatia. TDR Capital is a private equity firm with investments in companies in a variety of sectors, including petrol stations and retail and convenience operations connected with those petrol stations. The Commission concluded that the proposed transaction would raise no competition concerns given the limited horizontal overlaps between the companies' activities. The transaction was examined under the simplified merger review procedure. More information is available on the Commission's competition website, in the public case register under the case number M.9329. ### Mergers: Commission clears acquisition of joint control over Scout24 by Hellman & Friedman and Blackstone

The European Commission has approved under the Merger Regulation the acquisition of joint control of Scout24 AG of Germany by Hellman & Friedman LLC (“H&F”) and the Blackstone Group L.P. (“Blackstone”), both of the US. Scout24 is an online classified advertising portal specialising in the real estate and automotive sectors. H&F and Blackstone are investment management firms controlling a portfolio of companies in various sectors. The Commission concluded that the proposed acquisition would raise no competition concerns, because there is no overlap between the activities of the companies and their market shares on related markets are moderate. The transaction was examined under the simplified merger review procedure. More information is available on the Commission's competition website, in the public case register under the case number M.9333. ### Commissioner Bieńkowska in Poland to discuss the future of Europe, regional policy and the circular economy

Commissioner Elżbieta Bieńkowska, responsible for Internal Market, Industry, Entrepreneurship and SMEs, continues a series of Citizens' Dialogues in Poland. Today, the Commissioner will be in Wałbrzych to discuss the future of small and medium cities in Europe with Mr Roman Szełemej, Mayor of Wałbrzych and Mr Rafał Jurkowlanec, former Marshal of Lower Silesia. Later today, she will travel to Wrocław to host a dialogue with Mr Jacek Sutryk, Mayor of Wrocław, on the opportunities and challenges for Europe, in particular the future scenarios for the Central European region. Tomorrow, 17 May, the Commissioner participates in a Citizens' Dialogue in Częstochowa. Together with Mr Krzysztof Matyjaszczyk, Mayor of Częstochowa, she will focus on the benefits that a circular economy can bring to Europe. In 2015, the Commission adopted the new Circular Economy Action Plan to stimulate Europe's transition towards a circular economy that will create jobs, boost competitiveness, protect the environment and generate sustainable growth. Three years after the adoption of this Action Plan, all 54 actions were delivered or are being implemented. For example, the Commission put forward an EU-wide Plastics Strategy, revised the waste legislative framework or revamped the rules on fertilisers. For more information, see the 2019 report on the implementation of the Circular Economy Action Plan. (For more information: Lucia Caudet – Tel.: + 32 229 56182; Victoria von Hammerstein – Tel.: +32 229 55040)

Commissioner Gabriel is in Berlin to discuss about digital transformation, security and trust

Today, Commissioner for Digital Economy and Society Mariya Gabriel is in Berlin, Germany, to participate in the Bosch Connected World event, a conference on the Internet of Things (IoT) and digital transformation, bringing together executives, decision makers, innovators, developers, entrepreneurs, and IoT experts. She will give a keynote speech about the positive impact of various EU digital initiatives on the economy and society. Later in the day, Commissioner Gabriel is invited to address the parliamentary committee for the Digital Agenda in the Bundestag. She will underline the importance of bringing industrial stakeholders together to help boosting the trustworthiness and security of Internet of Things and Artificial Intelligence. For this purpose, in April the High-Level Expert Group on Artificial Intelligence issued the "Ethics Guidelines for Trustworthy Artificial Intelligence", while earlier, in March, the Commission issued a Recommendation on the security of 5G networks, which proposes a common EU approach for the identification of cyber risks and how to address them. At the same time the European 5G Observatory monitors market developments and preparatory actions taken by industry stakeholders and Member States in the context of 5G roll-out in Europe and beyond. This morning Commissioner Gabriel also participated in the launch of the "Digital Trust Forum", a stakeholder effort aimed at enhancing trust for the Internet of Things and Artificial Intelligence. (For more information: Nathalie
