

Safe Access Zones now established in Northern Ireland

Safe Access Zones have been introduced at eight health service locations across Northern Ireland.

New Lower Shankill park officially opened

A new park on the Lower Shankill, adjacent to the Westlink in Belfast, was officially opened today (September 29).

Sexual offences: changes in privacy and anonymity protections for victims and suspects

New laws to safeguard the privacy and anonymity of victims of sexual offences and suspects in sexual offence cases come into effect today.

Water users urged to enhance biosecurity

Commercial and recreational water users in Co Tyrone are being urged to enhance their biosecurity measures after tests have confirmed an outbreak of Crayfish plague in the Upper Ballinderry River catchment.

Official opening of Belfast Remote Evidence Centre

A new facility that ensures vulnerable witnesses giving evidence will not meet defendants within a court building, was officially opened in Belfast today the Department of Justice (DoJ) has announced.