

International cooperation at the heart of space security

Combined Space Operations Initiative partners meet in Florence, Italy, to enhance space security.

Security boss convicted for deploying staff with cloned licences

The boss of a security firm has been given a suspended sentence after he deployed door supervisors with cloned licences to venues across London.

Cutting edge prosthetics with improved sense of touch among 100 new discovery projects to receive government funding

Researchers from across the UK backed to advance projects which could spark new life-changing developments.

Nearly £1 million investment for British coastal towns to grow local economies

Funding will enable clusters to connect the maritime sector with local businesses, which will drive private investment into regional maritime.

Convicted fraudster handed fifth prison sentence

Dr Gerald Martin Smith has been imprisoned for an additional 13 months for obstructing the SFO from seizing his properties on behalf of the taxpayer.