

“Theresa May finally admits UK fisheries are on the table for Brexit discussions”

Mike Hookem MEP, the UKIP Fisheries Spokesman blasts May after she tells PMQs that the Common Fisheries Policy will form part of the agreement during any Brexit implementation period

Go to Source

Author:

The future of the NHS is precarious

The state of care across hospitals, care homes, home care, and GP surgeries is taking a nosedive and the future of the NHS is “precarious”, according to a report published today by the Care Quality Commission (CQC).

The NHS watchdog reported that staff shortages, rising demand, and increasing numbers of patients with preventable illnesses were putting an excessive strain on NHS services. The result of which has seen a rise in long waits at A&E, more operations being cancelled, and fewer available beds in hospitals and care homes.

Go to Source

Author:

Why does Labour want the EU to obstruct the UK discussing Trade Agreement with other countries?

All the 17 Labour MEPs present in Strasbourg voted against the following amendment:

“Insists that the EU must not obstruct or delay any negotiations by the UK Government that seek trade agreements with third countries, provided that such agreements are intended to commence on a date after the end of March 2019; “

Go to Source

Author:

UKIP’s Women’s and Equality spokesperson Margot Parker MEP said plans to declare your sex as ‘optional’ were madness

She was reacting to the news that The Office for National Statistics was considering declaring your sex could be optional in the next census under proposals aimed at recognising transgender people.

Go to Source

Author:

Kiss the defence of overseas territories Goodbye.

UKIP Defence Spokesman Bill Etheridge MEP is horrified at the latest defence cut plans, which could leave the UK without any amphibious assault ships.

Go to Source

Author: