

Launch of the Rural Innovation Support Service (RISS)

Three dairy farmers in the South West have formed the first working group in Scotland's new Rural Innovation Support Service (RISS), launching on Friday, February 9 2018.

New Entrants set to learn from old hands

Those attending this year's New Entrants to Farming Gathering can look forward to hearing from an impressive line-up of speakers.

Deans represent 'a new dawn'

The Academic Director of Scotland's Rural College (SRUC) says the appointment of three new Faculty Deans is part of the "dawning of a new era" for the institution.

Gates visits new Global Academy

Bill Gates and Penny Mordaunt, the Secretary of State for International Development, were at Easter Bush recently to officially open the Global Academy of Agriculture and Food Security.

Engagement with small-scale egg and poultry producers on disease must be improved

New research has revealed a gap in knowledge about disease control practices in many of Scotland's small-scale poultry keepers and egg producers.