

Avian influenza: Mandatory bird registration comes into force in October

There is less than one month to go for bird keepers in England and Wales to register themselves with the Animal and Plant Health Agency, as new legal requirement comes into force on 1 October.