

Bookings now open for two new courses to help civil servants improve their advising, briefing and drafting skills

The new courses are part of the suite of writing courses which form part of the Civil Service recommended learning curriculum.