Boost for tech startups as competition to run new support programme opens

Organisations can apply individually or join together to bid to become the provider of new UK digital and tech sector support programme