

Border Force bolster security measures in general aviation space

New fines of up to £10,000 for international general aviation flights that do not submit advance passenger information online up to two hours before departure.