

Brexit freedoms used to slash red tape for businesses

Business Secretary raises the bar for any new business regulations, in the latest step to help British businesses flourish.