

British Army completes first live firing of next-generation howitzer in Finland

The British Army has completed the first live firing of a next-generation howitzer in Finland in one of the largest series of NATO artillery exercises ever conducted in Europe.