

CAA publication of independent report into NATS technical failure

The report finds that all relevant parts of the aviation sector need to work together better when responding to major events such as the NATS technical failure.