

CAS expresses sympathy to member feeling unwell

Yesterday (June 9) afternoon, a member of the Civil Aid Service (CAS) felt unwell and fainted during training at Shing Mun Reservoir. The member was conveyed to the Pamela Youde Nethersole Eastern Hospital by a helicopter of the Government Flying Service for treatment. After examination, it was found that the member suffered from heat exhaustion. The member is currently in critical condition and receiving treatment in the Intensive Care Unit. The medical team is providing the most appropriate treatment.

The member, aged 32, joined the CAS in 2022 and is currently serving as a Grade 1 member. The CAS has been in contact with the member's family and expressed sympathy, while providing all necessary assistance.
