

CE delivers Lunar New Year message (with photo/video)

Following is the translation of the Lunar New Year message delivered by the Chief Executive, Mrs Carrie Lam, today (February 4):

"The Lunar New Year is an important festival for Chinese people. It is also a time for families to get together. When the Lunar New Year approaches, many people will do their festive shopping. I also took a break from my busy schedule and went to Sheung Wan to buy some dried seafood and flowers. I chatted with shop owners and staff, and took the chance to extend early New Year greetings to members of the public and exchange good wishes with them.

"This year is the Year of the Pig. I wish you all a healthy and prosperous year ahead."

The message is available on the Chief Executive's website (www.ceo.gov.hk/lny_message19/eng/).
