

Celebrities and influencers join forces to tackle loneliness

TV personalities and social media influencers back the launch of a Government campaign to address the stigma around loneliness in young people.