

Chancellor sees government support for families in action at school holiday club

The Chancellor visited a school holiday club in London where he saw the positive impacts of healthy food and extra-curricular activities on young people, as he committed to continuing to help families with the cost of living.