

Charity regulator praises constructive campaigning during General Election

The Charity Commission has published a report of its casework during the 2024 General Election, revealing a significant decline in serious concerns about a charity's campaigning activity compared with previous elections.