

Clampdown on child abuse as a gap in the law closed

Children will be better protected from sexual abuse following change to the law making it easier to prosecute criminals who have had sex in front of children for gratification.