

Climate benefits of Marine Protected Areas revealed

New research reveals that over half of Marine Protected Areas could contain habitats important for climate resilience.