

CMA partially upholds appeal on energy distribution licence changes

The CMA has partially upheld an appeal against the decision by the Gas and Electricity Markets Authority to modify the licences of two electricity distribution network operators.