

CMA sets out latest thinking on new build estate management concerns

A working paper published by the CMA sets out potential solutions to estate management concerns found as part of its housebuilding market study.