

Concerts raise patients' confidence

Since March of last year, teams at Kwai Chung Hospital have been organising concerts involving hospitalised mental health "persons-in-recovery", with the aim of boosting their confidence and outlook.

News.gov.hk spoke to the initiator of the concerts to learn about the ethos behind them, while two other performers shared their reflections on participating.

The story is available at www.news.gov.hk/eng/feature from today (December 29) in text and video format.
