

Consultation launched to review Environment Agency permit charges

The Environment Agency is launching a consultation on proposed changes to water quality permitting charges.