

Correspondence: Newborn blood spot screening: results to parents letter templates

Child health information services (CHIS) should use these letter templates to notify parents of their baby's blood spot screening results in a consistent way.