

Culture secretary and sports minister lead roundtable discussion on future of football

The Culture Secretary leads a roundtable discussion with current and former players from the Premier League, English Football League, Women's Super League and Women's Championship.