The Juncker Plan supports social enterprises in Spain

The European Investment Bank Group is investing in two equity funds in Spain to support the development of 46 social enterprises in the country. €10 million is invested into Creas Impacto, the first institutional social impact fund in Spain, to support early and late stage social enterprises. €3 million is invested into Equity4Good, managed by Ship2B, a Spanish foundation accelerating social enterprises with high social or environmental impact. Both deals have benefitted from the Employment and Social Innovation (EaSI) programme and the latter deal is also backed by the European Fund for Strategic Investments (EFSI), the heart of the Juncker Plan. Commissioner for Employment, Social Affairs, Skills and Labour Mobility, Marianne Thyssen said: “These two agreements, one of them supported by the Juncker Plan, will foster the development of social enterprises, which play a crucial role in our economy’s future. I strongly believe that support from public and private partners as well as a committed network of investors is key for start-ups to grow successfully, reach their target markets and fully realize their social mission. The Commission has supported the early stages of both these initiatives through grants under the Employment and Social Innovation programme, which helped them reach investment grade in their respective fields. I congratulate both Fundación Ship2B and Creas Impacto.” By November 2018, the Investment Plan had already mobilised €360 billion of investment across Europe, including almost €46 billion in Spain, and supported 850,000 small and medium businesses. WTO reform: EU proposes way forward on the functioning of the Appellate Body

Today, the EU together with other members of the World Trade Organisation (WTO) – Australia, Canada, China, Iceland, India, New Zealand, Mexico, Norway, Singapore and Switzerland – unveiled a proposal for concrete changes to overcome the current deadlock in the WTO Appellate Body. The proposal will be presented at the meeting of the WTO General Council on 12 December. Commissioner Malmström said: “The appellate body function of the WTO dispute settlement system is moving towards a cliff’s edge. Without this core function of the WTO, the world would lose a system that has ensured stability in global trade for decades. Now, together with a broad coalition of WTO members, we are presenting our most concrete proposals yet for WTO reform. I hope that this will contribute to breaking the current deadlock, and that all WTO members will take responsibility equally, engaging in good faith in the reform process.” For instance, today’s proposals set clear limits for outgoing Appellate Body members, and aim to make sure that appeal proceedings finish on time. The proposed amendments to the WTO Agreement submitted now to the organisation membership follow up on the EU’s ideas to modernise the WTO, published on 18 September, and are part of a broader effort that includes the recently submitted proposal on notification and transparency rules within the WTO that was co-sponsored among others by US and Japan. They are the result of intense discussions over the past weeks with WTO countries and address in a systematic and constructive manner all of the concerns expressed in recent months with respect to the Appellate Body. L'Union européenne soutient les lauréats du prix Nobel de la Paix 2018, Nadia Murad et Dr Denis Mukwege

Poursuivant son engagement en faveur des femmes victimes de violences sexuelles, l'UE a annoncé aujourd'hui un soutien additionnel d'environ cinq millions d'euros aux projets concrets des deux prix Nobel de la Paix 2018, Nadia Murad et Dr Denis Mukwege. Ce nouveau soutien a été annoncé lors de la rencontre aujourd'hui à Bruxelles de la haute représentante/vice-présidente Federica Mogherini et du commissaire en charge de la coopération internationale et du développement, Neven Mimica, avec Nadia Murad et Dr Denis Mukwege. Les deux lauréats étaient invités à discuter de l'éradication des violences faites aux femmes et de leurs impacts sur le développement, avec les Ministres européens en charge du développement lors du Conseil des affaires étrangères. La haute représentante/vice-présidente Federica Mogherini a déclaré: “En tant qu'Union européenne, nous saluons non seulement l'immense courage et travail effectué sans relâche par Nadia Murad et Denis Mukwege, souvent au péril de leur vie, mais il est également de notre devoir de soutenir du mieux que nous le pouvons leur travail, pour eux et toutes les personnes qu'ils représentent, comme nous le faisons déjà. C'est aussi la meilleure façon de célébrer la Journée internationale pour l'élimination de la violence faite aux femmes.” Le commissaire Neven Mimica a également commenté: “La violence à l'égard des femmes et des filles constitue l'un des crimes les plus effroyables, l'une des plus grandes injustices de notre temps, ainsi qu'un obstacle au développement de toute société. Je suis très heureux de pouvoir renforcer notre soutien aux lauréats du prix Nobel de la Paix 2018. C'est ainsi que l'Union européenne peut contribuer à mettre fin aux violences sexuelles, une fois pour toutes, partout dans le monde.” Le communiqué de presse complet est disponible ici. Better Regulation: The Commission reviews its efforts to simplify EU legislation

Today, the Commission has published a review of the European Union's efforts to simplify legislation and reduce regulatory burdens in 2018 in line with our commitment in the Interinstitutional Agreement on Better Law-Making and as part of its Better Regulation Agenda. The survey finds that, under the Regulatory fitness and performance (REFIT) programme, the current Commission has delivered more than 150 initiatives focused on simplifying legislation and reducing burdens. A recent example is a proposal to amend the current VAT rules where compliance costs for small businesses are expected to be reduced to €56.1 billion per year, an 18% reduction compared to the present situation. Under another Commission proposal for a single maritime window, savings are estimated at €625-720 million for shipping operators in the period 2020-2030. In 2018, the Commission also presented a set of proposals for the post-2020 Multiannual Financial Framework, which aim to significantly simplify procedures. Swift adoption by the European Parliament and Council of those proposals that are still pending will allow citizens, businesses and national authorities to benefit concretely from the proposed simplification measures. In carrying out this review, the Commission was supported by the REFIT Platform which adopted a further 31 opinions in the twelve months to October 2018. The review also presents how the Commission has responded to all 89 Platform opinions. Since 2017, an online scoreboard, updated on a quarterly-basis, tracks in detail the state of play of all REFIT-related activities. The survey is available online. Adoption of new rules for veterinary medicinal products and medicated feed

Today, the Council adopted the Regulations on the veterinary medicinal products and medicated feed. The European Parliament had already approved the texts on 25 October 2018 with a very large support. Vytenis Andriukaitis, European Commissioner for Health and Food Safety, said: “Today’s endorsement by EU ministers of a new legislation on veterinary medicinal products and medicated feed marks a major step forward in the fight against antimicrobial resistance. It has been a priority since the beginning of my mandate given that, in the EU, the majority of antimicrobials are consumed in animals. I am convinced that the legislation will have a major impact in Europe, but also on a global stage since the EU proves itself as a leader in the battle against antimicrobial resistance.” The new legislations will help provide for a modern, innovative and fit for purpose legal framework on veterinary medicinal products; give incentives to stimulate innovation; increase the availability of veterinary medicinal products; strengthen the EU action to fight antimicrobial resistance; ensure economically-viable production of safe medicated feed throughout the EU; foster innovation in medicated feed. Following the co-signature by the President of the European Parliament and the Austrian Presidency of the Council the text will be published in the Official Journal of the European Union and enter into force twenty days later. Une enquête de la Commission européenne révèle l’inquiétude des citoyens européens face aux risques d’ingérence à quelques mois des élections européennes

La Commission européenne dédie le colloque 2018 sur les droits fondamentaux à la “démocratie dans l’Union européenne”, un thème d’actualité en cette période où les européens s’inquiètent d’ingérence dans les élections. Une nouvelle enquête Eurobaromètre, publiée aujourd’hui, dévoile les attentes des européens quelques mois avant les élections européennes de mai 2019, ainsi les facteurs qui les inciteraient à voter. L’enquête montre également qu’une

majorité de citoyens européens s'inquiète du fait que des campagnes de désinformation, des violations de données et des cyberattaques puissent perturber les processus électoraux. Le Colloque annuel 2018 sur les droits fondamentaux rassemble des responsables politiques, des chercheurs, des journalistes, des organisations non gouvernementales et des militants en vue de d'une discussion sur la manière de rendre nos démocraties plus résilientes et inclusives, de soutenir la société civile et de mieux préserver le caractère libre et équitable des élections. M. Frans Timmermans, premier vice-président de la Commission européenne, a déclaré: «Nos études montrent que la désinformation suscite de vives préoccupations, ce qui a comme aspect positif que de plus en plus de citoyens font preuve d'esprit critique face aux informations qu'ils reçoivent, et sont tout à fait conscients des potentiels éléments perturbateurs qui aspirent à influencer ce qu'ils lisent et pensent, afin de manipuler leur vote. Or il est essentiel que les citoyens exercent leur droit de vote pour que notre démocratie européenne conserve sa légitimité. Et c'est pour cela que nous tous, les institutions de l'UE comme les États membres, devons protéger nos élections et renforcer notre démocratie.» Et Mme Věra Jourová, commissaire européenne chargée de la justice, des consommateurs et de l'égalité des genres, d'ajouter: «Cette enquête confirme que les Européens savent que les élections à venir ne seront pas comme les autres. Ils attendent des mesures garantissant des élections équitables et sûres. Ils souhaitent aussi obtenir davantage d'informations sur l'UE et voir de nouvelles personnalités politiques s'y présenter. Nous travaillons à lutter contre l'utilisation frauduleuse des données et la désinformation, et à mieux protéger nos élections. Mais les gouvernements des pays de l'UE et tous les partis politiques doivent également pleinement s'investir. Nous ne pouvons répondre aux attentes des citoyens que si nous oeuvrons de concert». D'après l'Eurobaromètre au sujet des prochaines élections européennes, 43 % des personnes interrogées souhaitent recevoir davantage d'informations sur l'Union européenne et son incidence sur leur quotidien et 31 % souhaitent voir davantage de jeunes candidats aux élections. En septembre, la Commission européenne a déjà présenté un ensemble de mesures concrètes visant à garantir que les élections de l'année prochaine au Parlement européen se déroulent de manière libre, équitable et sûre. La Commission européenne a également mis en place un réseau européen de coopération électorale, qui se réunira pour la première fois en janvier 2019. Le colloque sur les droits fondamentaux commence cet après-midi pour deux jours et est ouvert aux journalistes sur inscription. Toutes les informations sur cet évènement sont disponibles ici. Mergers: Commission refers to Belgium the assessment of two interrelated transactions in the media sector

The European Commission has referred to the Belgian Competition Authority the assessment of a proposed merger, consisting of the two following interrelated transactions: (i) the acquisition of sole control over De Vijver Media, of

Belgium, by Liberty Global, of the UK; and (ii) the acquisition of joint control over a newly created advertising sales joint venture by Liberty Global and Mediahuis, also of Belgium. De Vijver Media broadcasts the Dutch-language free-to-Air TV channels “Vier”, “Vijf” and “Zes”, produces TV content and sells advertising space on several TV channels. Liberty Global is the controlling shareholder of Telenet, which operates a cable network in Flanders and parts of Brussels, and also operates a number of Pay-TV channels. Mediahuis is an independent and diversified Belgian media group that is mainly active in the publishing of Dutch language newspapers and the print, audiovisual and advertising sectors. The newly created joint venture will be active in the marketing and the sale of advertising space linked to digital video and in the sale of cross media advertising. The Belgian authorities asked the Commission to refer the proposed concentration to them. They consider that the transaction may threaten to significantly affect competition in a number of regional markets within Belgium, presenting all the characteristics of distinct markets. These markets relate to all levels of the TV value chain, such as the wholesale supply of TV channels in Telenet’s footprint or the retail provision of TV services to end users in Telenet’s footprint, and to the sale of advertising space. The evidence gathered by the Commission confirmed that the conditions for a referral under Article 9 of the EU Merger Regulation were fulfilled and that the Belgian Competition Authority is well placed to assess the proposed merger. The Commission has therefore decided to refer the case in its entirety to Belgium, which will deal with the case under national law. State aid: Commission approves aid-free privatisation of German HSH Nordbank

The European Commission has approved the sale of HSH Nordbank by the German Länder of Hamburg and Schleswig-Holstein to a consortium of private equity funds led by J.C. Flowers and Cerberus. Under the May 2016 Commission decision, German authorities committed to sell HSH’s operational part within an agreed deadline in an open, transparent and non-discriminatory tender process, at a positive price and without additional State aid, to a buyer that returns HSH to viability. Germany was required to notify the outcome of the sale process to the Commission. Today’s decision confirms that the sale of HSH to a consortium of private equity funds complies with the requirements set out in the 2016 Commission decision. Concretely, the Commission found that: (i) there is no aid to the buyers since HSH is being sold to the bidders with the highest and most credible offer, in an open and transparent process that resulted in a positive price; and (ii) under its new ownership’s business plan, HSH is expected to return to viability. In particular, the successful completion of the privatisation will allow HSH to continue to perform its core activities in the market as a restructured and viable entity, without further need of public support. Commissioner Margrethe Vestager, in charge of competition, said: “The German authorities have found a sustainable solution for HSH Nordbank that avoids the need for further public support for the bank. On the basis of the new private owner's business plan, HSH can become a viable market player, continuing to support economic development in Germany." Mergers: Commission clears the acquisition of joint control over Network Rail's commercial estate business by Blackstone and Telereal Trillium

The European Commission has approved, under the EU Merger Regulation, the acquisition of joint control over the commercial estate business of Network Rail Infrastructure Limited of the UK by Blackstone Group L.P. ("Blackstone") of the US and Tele-Finance Holdings Limited ("Telereal Trillium") of the UK. Network Rail is a public sector body that manages Britain's railway infrastructure in England, Wales and Scotland. Blackstone is a global asset manager. Telereal Trillium is a property management company operating in property partnerships, investment, development and strategic land. The Commission concluded that the proposed acquisition would raise no competition concerns given the limited overlaps between the companies' activities and the absence of any vertical relationships brought about by the transaction. The operation was examined under the simplified merger review procedure. More information is available on the Commission's competition website, in the public case register under the case number M.9131. Commissioner Vella speaks at the first international high-level Sustainable

Blue Economy Conference

Commissioner for the Environment, Maritime Affairs and Fisheries Karmenu Vella will today deliver a speech at the Leaders' Segment of the first international high-level Sustainable Blue Economy Conference held in Nairobi (Kenya) from 26-28 November. The Commissioner will remind the participants of the recently proposed by President Juncker Alliance for Sustainable Investment and Jobs between Europe and Africa, an Alliance that could help create up to 10 million jobs in Africa in the next 5 years. In support of this Alliance the Commissioner will announce a number of actions through which the EU is supporting the development of a sustainable maritime economy in Africa and beyond. The blue economy has a huge potential to drive sustainable growth. In the European Union – from the Mediterranean through the Atlantic to the Baltic Sea – it generates 566 billion EUR and creates jobs for nearly 3.5 million people. Commissioner Vella will also recall the work done by the EU and this Commission in particular in managing fish stocks at sustainable levels by 2020, reducing plastic marine litter, fighting illegal fishing and mobilising the markets through the EU's External Investment Plan. Nearly 44 billion EUR of investment could be activated this way by 2020, including for the maritime economy. As part of his visit to Kenya, Commissioner Vella will also meet the President of Kenya, Mr Uhuru Kenyatta to discuss EU-Kenya cooperation in promoting green and blue growth. Tomorrow, Commissioner Vella will receive a Medal from the French Maritime Cluster for his commitment and work on actively including the seas and oceans as part of our economy. (For more information: Enrico Brivio – Tel.: + 32 229 56172; Daniela Stoycheva – Tel.: +32 229 53664)
