

DASA launches new £1.6 million competition to get missiles talking

DASA has launched a new Themed Competition to identify and develop novel technologies that could be exploited in the development of a new category of missile – cooperative missiles.