The Census and Statistics Department (C&SD) published today (December 15) the December 2020 issue of the “Hong Kong Monthly Digest of Statistics” (HKMDS).

“Fertility Trend in Hong Kong, 1981 to 2019”

Broadly speaking, Hong Kong’s fertility showed a declining trend over the past 38 years. After experiencing the historic low of 901 live births per 1 000 women in 2003, the total fertility rate rebounded to 1 285 in 2012, before declining gradually to 1 051 in 2019. During the whole period, the total fertility rate of Hong Kong has been consistently below the replacement level of 2 100.

This feature article gives a brief account of the fertility trend in Hong Kong over the period from 1981 to 2019 and analyses the factors underlying the fertility trend.

In particular, port transshipment cargo movements between Hong Kong and the mainland of China (the Mainland) accounted for the largest share (41.3%) of Hong Kong’s port transshipment cargo. About 71.5% of Mainland-Hong Kong port transshipment cargo movements were between Hong Kong and the Pearl River Delta region.
