

Defuse the 'weather bomb' with better protection and stronger resilience says Environment Agency Chief Executive

Sir James Bevan urges "twin track" approach to flood management and will warn against the "wrong kind of development" on flood plains in speech.