

Discovering new maerl beds on the South Coast of Cornwall

New maerl beds discovered just off the coast are crucial in supporting other marine species.