

Dmitry Medvedev congratulates President of Turkey Recep Tayyip Erdoğan on 95th anniversary of the Republic of Turkey

The message reads, in part:

“Russia and Turkey enjoy friendly and neighbourly relations, with important results achieved in strengthening trade, economic, scientific, technical, cultural and humanitarian cooperation.

I am confident that active and coordinated work between our governments will further promote the full range of bilateral cooperation and create favourable conditions to launch new promising projects and initiatives in energy, infrastructure, industry and other areas.”
