

Dmitry Medvedev sends a message of greetings to Hungarian Prime Minister Viktor Orban on his country's national holiday, St Stephen's Day

The message reads, in part:

“Russia and Hungary are linked by friendly and partner relations. Our trade, economic, scientific, technological, cultural and humanitarian interaction is developing steadily. I am confident that the further build-up of the entire system of bilateral cooperation and the implementation of major joint energy, industrial, infrastructure and other projects fully meets our countries' interests.”
