

Domestic killers face tougher sentences in latest move to halve violence against women and girls

Jealous ex-partners and murderers who use their hands as weapons to strangle victims face severe prison sentences under new laws set to be brought in by the government.