

Drainage Services Department's public services to return to normal

The Drainage Services Department (DSD) announced today (September 11) that its public services will resume as normal starting from September 15.

In the interest of public health, members of the public who have to visit DSD premises will have their body temperatures checked when entering DSD premises. Only those with normal temperatures will be allowed access. Visitors are also required to wear surgical masks at all times.

In order to reduce social contact and to apply infection control measures, DSD facilities will continue to be closed for public visits or other educational purposes until further notice.

The DSD will continue to review the situation and adjust the control measures as and when necessary.
