

Drones aid environmental protection

The Environmental Protection Department has made great strides in their effort to combat illegal landfill works and investigate ecological disturbances with the usage of drone technology.

News.gov.hk interviewed the department's representatives to learn how its drone team has been instrumental to its success in protecting our environment.

The story is available at www.news.gov.hk/eng/feature today (December 13) in text and video format.