

Egg labelling requirements amended to support industry through bird flu outbreaks

Producers and packers will no longer need to change how eggs are labelled during mandatory bird flu housing measures. The move will reduce cost pressures on egg producers and packers and boost supply chains.