

Eight-year ban for director of home improvements firm which failed to complete more than £300,000 of building work

The company accepted payments for projects when it was insolvent