

Environment Agency officers saved life of trainer

Two members of the Environment Agency have been recognised after their actions helped save the life of a trainer who had a cardiac arrest in their office.