

Environment Agency continues to urge caution following extreme weather

The Environment Agency has urged people to stay vigilant to the risk of flooding and stay away from swollen rivers.