

Environment Secretary announces further £45 million for farming innovation as he sets out commitment to champion British agriculture

Steve Barclay pledges to champion British agriculture in first speech to farmers, with a focus on innovation and automation to boost productivity.